Highway Surfacing Proposal Dropped

Lack of Support—Those Interviewed Say It's Up to Government—Surfacing Town Roads Suggested.

Committees in the various Pass towns report that very little if any support was given to the proposal to raise by subscription money to pay for surfacing the highway between Maple Leaf and Coleman west.

The main reason given was that so much is now being paid in licenses, driver's fees and gasoline tax, that if the money collected for highways was spent in improving them, it would not be necessary to ask the public to assume the direct cost. Many favor continued pressure being brought on the provincial government to see that a greater proportion of the money collected in the Pass towns is spent on surfacing, as sufficient money has been paid over a term of years to make a cement highway and leave a big surplus.

Now the subject has been discussed, people living in Coleman have turned their thoughts towards surfacing the roads within the town limits. The due nuisance this summer has been the worst ever, and it will continue. If the majority favor the council going ahead with a surfacing program to include the entire town, it will necessitate an increase on the taxes, probably spread over a few years. On the other hand, if it was decided to raise the money by subscription, many have expressed themselves in favor if it will help to eliminate the nuisance from which the town now suffers.

The best plan would be to place before the ratemakers a definite program of road surfacing, and if a majority were in favor, go ahead and make a real job, the same as was done on Main street. It would be an improvement well worth while, it would eliminate dust from car traffic, and not a housewife in town but would welcome the proposal, seeing they have to clean so much of it from their homes.

OLD ADVICE BUT IT'S GOOD YET

HERE is some advice received long ago, which may interest those who imagine newspaper work consists of just digging up some news and advertising, setting it in type and sending out the bills.

"The only way to make money in the newspaper game is to forget about making money. The only way to be successful in the newspaper game is to forget about success."

"The way to fame and fortune lies through the making of newspapers for public service—and through no other route."

This just happens to be the system by which a newspaper genius becomes one of the most powerful figures in American journalism. That's all!—Scripps-Canfield Bulletin.

Board of Trade

May Awaken

Can It Be Awakened is Question Some Are Asking. "Dead-heads" Don't Care; All Must Help in March of Progress.

NOT since 1933 has there been an effort to secure membership for the Board of Trade. An attempt was made to hold monthly luncheons some years ago, at 1 p.m. on Wednesdays, and to last for one hour. The first was well attended; the second by a baker's dozen, and then it petered out. Some even either refused or reluctantly gave the $2.00 membership fee. There was, frankly speaking, a lack of community spirit among quite a number, leaving not more than half a dozen to shoulder the leadership or the work which a live board should engage in.

If there is a lack of enterprise among business men, it is reflected in lack of goodwill of customers towards them. Each develops confidence in the other if there is a display of mutual goodwill, and Board of Trade functioning aggressively in a town or city keeps it on the map and promotes many worth-while things of lasting value.

There is no service club here, despite efforts at various times to organize a Rotary or Kiwanis club. Some are so closely tied to their business they will not give an hour a week to meet, with the result there is not that bond of community spirit which helps wonderfully in promoting harmony and mutual understanding.

But some ask, why not organize? It can easily be done if a sufficient number will get behind the suggestion. Half a dozen cannot do the work that every businessman should be sharing. How many will respond?

"You might wipe 50% off the list, and they'd never be missed," was the remark of one in giving his opinion on Board of Trade activities and the lack of interest of those who should be vitally concerned. It is true; the lagard act as a brake on those who want to get things done. Telling the plain truth might shake some out of their somnolence.

Douglas Bevan, who has been attending summer school in Edmonton, arrived home this week. Striking two-colored posters advertising the Elks and rink carnival, printed by The Journal have been distributed through the Pass towns.

Paper Money Causes Thought

Canadian Currency and Prosperity Certificates Circulating in Province Give Rise to Problems

So many differing opinions have been expressed on the use of Prosperity Certificates authorized by Premier Aberhart, as to their effect on placing purchasing power in the hands of the people, that it is well to read historical records of many attempts in other countries along similar lines.

The Quantity Theory of issuing paper money without any reserve to back it has been tried in recent years in Germany and Russia, and in regard to its use in Germany, many will remember that one could become the owner of a million marks for possibly ten cents.

It is not inferred that you will get a million Prosperity Certificates for so little, but such a condition was demonstrated to the point of absurdity in Germany as late as the post-war years. Here is an extract from an article entitled "Effects of Altering Quantity of Money," as now being done in Alberta.

"In Germany and Russia, the attempt to keep pace with the rise in prices by putting 'purchasing power' in the shape of paper money into the hands of the public, produced finally a condition in which goods cost twice as much in the evening as they did in the morning, and a workman with weekly wages measured in uncountable billions of marks could not afford to eat butter with his bread. Every country in the world at some time or other has gone through the same experience, differing only in degree."

The article from which the above was taken was written by Sir Norman Angell, author of "The Money Game," "The Great Illusion" and other works.

It is well to remember that nothing in the way of money or property, or goods or services can be obtained without you have something to give in exchange, so that it is likely there will be great disappointment when those who have bought themselves with false hopes of getting dividends without contributing towards them find that their dream is shattered. One has only to ask himself the common-sense question—"Can it be Done?" and do his own thinking to work out a solution. Too many listen only to that which pleases them. Experiences of the past are ignored, when much might be gained by studying them. So little thought has been given to money matters in the past that there is a danger of impulsive action bringing harm and chaos in the economic system instead of remedying the evils now complained of. Conditions can be much worse, despite that familiar saying so often quoted, that they cannot be.

Lieut. Pierce To New Post
After 15 months service here in company with Lieut. Fitch, Lieut. Pierce will be transferred, but has not yet learned of his new post. He came here in June 1935, this being his first appointment, and both of the officers here have by their energy and enthusiasm re-kindled interest in the world-wide work of the Salvation Army. His farewell services will be held on Sunday. Good wishes from many in Coleman will follow him.

Mining Output Steady Increase

Increased Employment Results in Building Activity; Population Increased About 600 Since 1901

THE following figures are for May and June of 1935 and 1936, showing an increase of 9,554 tons for the two months of 1936 as against 1935:

May 1936	110,766 tons
May 1935	102,680 tons
1936 increase	8,066 tons
June 1936	100,042 tons
June 1935	99,574 tons

Increase ..... 1,468 tons
Increased output covering the past two years of Coleman mines has reflected itself in building activity, over 30 new houses having been built, while many have enlarged or improved their homes. Still there are not sufficient houses, and some working in Coleman are living in Blairmore.

An estimated increase of 600 population since 1931 has necessitated the building of many new homes. The population is 3300.

Frank H. Graham Has Interesting Auto Trip

3,000 miles in two weeks, and a five day visit with friends in San Francisco, was the summer holiday of Postmaster Graham, who was accompanied by his son Donald. Frank has plenty to tell of the highlights of the trip, especially the scenic attractions of the Columbia River highway, while San Francisco, interesting Californian city with the glamor of romance of the gold rush and "Barbary Coast" days, and its awe-inspiring bridges, marvels of engineering skill, almost hold the visitor spell-bound. His holiday was short, but he saw plenty, while his son Donald undoubtedly has memories of the trip stored up which he will remember for a lifetime.

Civil War In Spain Continues With Increasing Ferocity

London.—After a month of fighting, the civil war in Spain rages with increasing ferocity.

Both sides are shooting prisoners ruthlessly. In Madrid alone 733 insurgents and supporters, including priests, were reported shot by government militia. Seven thousand others were under arrest.

The Foreign Legion and Moorish troops drive the rebel cause steadily forward, mopping up villages as they go.

In both France and Britain left-wing critics are increasingly bitter. They see Spain overrun with fascism while great democracies barely struggle for agreement. They see looming ahead a fight to a finish between the opposing philosophies of dictatorship in a totalitarian state and the French Republican doctrine of the rights of man.

Fifteen thousand men and women marched in Trafalgar square Sunday, and passed a resolution pledging assistance to the Spanish government and people "in their courageous and resolute struggle." The contingents represented the Labor party, the Communist party, Youth leagues, Women's Co-operative leagues and Socialist leagues.

In the procession were women pushing baby-carriages. Some of the men carried children on their shoulders. As they passed Charing Cross station, a number of demonstrators raised a clenched hand in the Communist salute. A shower of coins fell on the platform when an appeal was made for the Spanish relief fund.

First Boat At Churchill

Wentworth Arrives With Heavy Cargo For Prairie Centres

Churchill, Man.—Acting at this farthest port on Hudson Bay got into full swing with the arrival of the steamer Wentworth. The Wentworth docked August 10.

The steamer had 3,000 tons of general cargo to discharge here, including coal for Churchill and other northern points; large castings and steel grinding balls for mines in northern Manitoba, glass and other merchandise for prairie centres.

Captain L. Graves, a veteran of the Churchill route, reported a quiet voyage from England with a delay of one day owing to fog. The Wentworth began loading about 310,000 bushels of wheat for Europe.

Interim Injunction To Restrain Edmonton Using Certificates

Edmonton.—Restraining the city of Edmonton from accepting or undertaking to accept "prosperity certificates" from the Alberta government, an interim injunction was granted here by Mr. Justice T. M. Tweedie of the Alberta supreme court.

Ronald Hannan Watson, Edmonton mining engineer, "suing on his own behalf as well as other burgesses of the city," asked for the injunction in a statement of claim. Defendants named were Mayor Clarke of Edmonton, City Clerk Alfred Russel and Hon. J. W. Hugill, K.C., as attorney-general of the province.

"The city of Edmonton" is prevented by the injunction "from any agreement with the government of the province of Alberta whereby the city of Edmonton accepts or undertakes to accept prosperity certificates from the government or from any other person or persons until the trial of this action or until further order."

The injunction does not restrain citizens of Edmonton from accepting certificates.

The injunction named Edmonton from signing an agreement with the province whereby the government would have given the city $85,000 in certificates in lieu of the $55,000 August cash relief grant expected. City council agreed to accept the province's offer.

According to the province's offer, the city of Edmonton would agree to purchase $55,000 worth of certificates with the cash grant. The province would give the city an additional $30,000 in certificates which Edmonton would guarantee to keep in circulation for the next two years or in effect until the certificates had expired.

Made Indian Chief

Lord Tweedsmuir Is Accepted Into Cree Brotherhood

Caston, Sask.—Accepted into the Cree brotherhood, Lord Tweedsmuir, governor-general of Canada, became King Oshkosh-Watahsoway, "Teller of Tales"—at a long-standing ceremony here. There were 5,000 participants as Chief Sam Swimmer of the Sweet Grass band, nephew of the Great Roundmaker, who led the Indian uprising on those plains 51 years ago, placed the feather head dress on the head of the governor-general and placed about his shoulders a fine white caribou skin.

The Indian chiefs also presented Lord Tweedsmuir with a beautifully beaded robe as a coronation gift for His Majesty the king. In addition, they created Prime Minister W. L. Mackenzie King an honorary chief, naming him Oshkosh-Weesuwew—"Wise Counsellor."

This was the visit of the governor-general, Lady Tweedsmuir and their party was a highlight of the two-day celebration to mark the 60th anniversary of Treaty No. 6, signed at Carlton, by which the Indians ceded rights in their lands to Queen Victoria.

Carlton, a fur trading centre of 80 years ago, was the mecca of Indians from distant parts and for several thousand white people who joined with them in marking the anniversary of the historic event.

The solemn, dignified ceremonial, by which Lord Tweedsmuir became a Cree chieftain, took place on a pavilion erected with a poplar grove for a background. Following the actual conferring of chieftainship and acceptance into the Cree nation, 50 braves staged a pow-wow dance before the platform.

His Excellency addressed a few words to the assembled chiefs in their Cree tongue—conducted in English. In Cree he said: "Brother chief, I am most happy on this occasion. You have done me great honour in taking me into your brotherhood."

Find Sunken Steamer

Moscow.—A reminder of the Allied army intervention in Russian affairs in 1918 has been discovered near Archangel. A diver working the Dvina river found a large English steamer overturned and half covered with sand. The Soviets will attempt to raise it.

The dead were carried to a nearby garage which served as a temporary morgue while identification proceeded.

Selassie Is Hopeful

Believes He Can Re-establish His Ethiopian Kingdom

Bath, England.—Emperor Haile Selassie is resting at this seacoast resort, hoping some day to re-establish his Ethiopian kingdom.

The negus apparently is more cheerful than at any time since the League of Nations gave him cold shoulder to his plea for financial assistance. He has taken heart, his spokesman said, by reports that remnants of his armies are operating in western Ethiopia and hope to retake Addis Ababa.

"We are in a strong position with an established seat of government at Gondar," the negus' representative asserted. "The chief difficulty is that we are unable to import munitions."

The negus, who sought refuge after the diplomatic defeat at Geneva last month, planned to remain several weeks more formulating a program of action and await developments in Ethiopia. He is not going to America in search of sympathy, his representative said, but there was no definite assertion he had abandoned plans for the trip entirely.

Fatal Crossing Accident

Eighteen Killed And Fourteen Injured In Quebec Crash

Louisville, Que.—A fast freight rumbling from Quebec to Montreal struck a truck load of men returning from a political meeting early Saturday, killing 18 and injuring 14.

The other five men in the truck load of 37 jumped clear an instant before the crash.

Dragged along the right-of-way as the train ground to a halt, the truck burst into flames.

Trainmen aided in dragging the dead and injured from the blazing wreckage of the truck.

Scattered amid the debris were 17 dead and one of the injured died later in hospital.

Several of the injured rushed to hospitals in Three Rivers, 15 miles east, were reported in critical condition.

The occupants of the truck had attended a contradictory political meeting at Ste. Justine in Maskinonge county, and were on their way home to Louisville.

The dead were carried to a nearby garage which served as a temporary morgue while identification proceeded.

Drowned On Vacation Trip

American Professor Meets Death In Rapids Near Aklakiv

Edmonton—A Canadian Airways aeroplane was standing at Aklakiv to fly the body of professor Emer. Leslie Fuller, 53, Chicago, to civilization. The Northwestern University professor was drowned in rapids near Aklakiv while on a northern canoe trip with his sons and two friends.

Edmonton officials of the aviation company said that the body may be flown out to Dawson City, only 500 miles from Aklakiv, instead of to Edmonton, as originally expected. Aklakiv is 1,800 miles from Edmonton by air.

The new regulations include placarding premises when the patient remains there. Food-handlers are forbidden to engage in their occupations within 14 days of their last exposure to infantile paralysis infection.

Grecian Dictator

King Abandons His Nautical Hobby

Sibenik, Yugoslavia.—An island and harbor in Yugoslavia bore the name of King Edward as His Majesty cruised in vagabond style along the Dalmatian coast.

The King abandoned his nautical

vacation for a time to go ashore at Rab where he purchased dolls in native costume, talked economics with the shopkeepers and refreshed his memory of the locality's history.

Officials renamed Kuki Otoke King Edward Island and gave to Tejar, harbor, the King's name.

Early in the day the royal yacht Nahid steamed into Rab's port for Starigrad, 25 miles north, where the King was declared to be planning a deer hunt in the Velebit mountains.

Wherever he appeared and was recognized—he received cheers from the populace. At one stop, however, fishermen were not aware of his identity, believing him a naval officer from a passing ship.

The King fished until midnight and caught two large "dentalfish," weighing approximately eight pounds.

He was given a hearty welcome.

King Edward was welcomed by the King of Montenegro and the King of Serbia.

Although on the surface the government-Social Credit coalition could not provide a majority in the house, Premier Bracken stated he has been promised support of one of the independent members-elect, whom he did not name.

Without either of the two seats

still to be decided, this would give the government 28 members. They contend this number would enable them to carry on although, after election of a speaker, they would have the same number of members as the opposition if both The Pas and Rupert's Land seats were lost.

"We feel that it is the desire of the people of Manitoba that we should assist in maintaining stable government until such time as Alberta has provided us with the practical demonstration of Social Credit," Dr. Fox's statement said.

In reply, Premier Bracken stated in part:

"We realize the very natural desire of the Social Credit group to maintain its identity and independence and we therefore appreciate all the more fully their expressed willingness to maintain stability of government and their assistance in providing sound, progressive legislation until such time as Social Credit in Alberta demonstrates its ability to bring about economic reform."

Location For "The Great Barrier" Film Swept By Flames

Revelstoke, B.C.—One of the most beautiful of all the Rocky Mountain scenic spots, used a short time ago as a background for the Gaumont British motion picture, "The Great Barrier," was devastated by fire.

Where movie cameras shot the stirring scenes of the great railway construction period, fire was laying waste the heavily timbered slopes of the Columbia canyon at Silver Tip Ranch, eight miles from here.

The blaze was believed started by a careless cigarette smoker.

A wooden platform used to obtain a view of the falls was destroyed. Only a blackened mountaineer remained, and the fire, fought by a large force of men, was licking its way through the timber toward the higher reaches of Mount Revelstoke.

Date For Special Session

Edmonton—Premier Aberhart announced a special session of the Alberta legislature to deal with measures for inaugurating Social Credit and discuss the drought situation in the southern part of the province which would start August 25.

Bear Name Of King Edward

Officials Have Renamed Island And Harbor In Yugoslavia

Sibenik, Yugoslavia.—An island and harbor in Yugoslavia bore the name of King Edward as His Majesty cruised in vagabond style along the Dalmatian coast.

The King abandoned his nautical

vacation for a time to go ashore at Rab where he purchased dolls in native costume, talked economics with the shopkeepers and refreshed his memory of the locality's history.

Officials renamed Kuki Otoke King Edward Island and gave to Tejar, harbor, the King's name.

In a prepared statement, given to the press, Dr. Fox said his group of five members, "while maintaining its independence to political parties, will assist the government in maintaining stability and support all sane, sound and progressive legislation, particularly that which moves in the direction of economic and financial reform."

Of the 53 members elected July 27, Liberal-Progressives had 22, Conservatives 16, Co-operative Commonwealth Federation six, Social Credit five, Independents three and Communists one. Deferred elections in The Pas and Rupert's Land will bring the legislature membership to 55.

Although on the surface the government-Social Credit coalition could not provide a majority in the house, Premier Bracken stated he has been promised support of one of the independent members-elect, whom he did not name.

Without either of the two seats

still to be decided, this would give the government 28 members. They contend this number would enable them to carry on although, after election of a speaker, they would have the same number of members as the opposition if both The Pas and Rupert's Land seats were lost.

Report New Support To Be Given Rebel Army In Spain

London.—In a message to the Daily Telegraph from Gibraltar, Sir Percival Phillips, noted newspaper correspondent says he learns from an observer, General Francisco Franco's southern rebel army based at Seville will shortly be supported by a new organization comprising modern German and Italian planes and personnel.

This observer learned from a source he considers absolutely trustworthy that General Franco now has:

20 Junker transport planes; five German pursuit machines with original markings erased with black paint, and seven Caproni planes of the type the Italians used with deadly effect in Ethiopia.

Sir Percival's despatch continues the observer also saw "a German expert training Spanish gunners in the use of an anti-aircraft gun described to him as the latest German type.

He was told later six of these guns, with a range of nearly 4½ miles, recently were delivered at Seville.

"It was not unusual," the despatch continues, "to see one or two Junkers over Seville also on instructional flights." On one occasion he watched three Caproni in perfect formation on a certain alignment which he was told was not usual for Spanish aircraft. He had the impression the greater part of this material and personnel had arrived at Seville only in the last few days as there was a conference at General Franco's headquarters to discuss an aerial offensive against the government forces.

Lord Rothermere's Daily Mail continues its bitter attack on Communist barbarities in Spain. It charges the Madrid government "committed one of the worst crimes in history by arming the scum of Madrid and Barcelona and other Spanish cities, placing deadly weapons in the hands of convicts, etc. lunatics. It has thus enabled a ruffianly gang to murder and massacre nuns and priests and decent people who happen not to be Bolsheviks."

E. J. Burford, in a letter to the Daily Telegraph from a London address, writes "I left Barcelona by car and can testify to the extreme courtesy and assistance which we received from all these 'bloodthirsty reds,'" whereby we were enabled to do the journey to the frontier in 3½ hours. They even went to the trouble of painting protecting letters on the car to save us possible trouble on the road and gave me an armed guard for a while."

Four multi-engined airliners, says the Evening Standard have left London bound for Lisbon and Spain. The machines are:

"Two Fokkers from Croydon, bound for Lisbon. It is understood they are making for rebel headquarters at Burgos."

Two DH 84 type dragon machines from Heston airport, bound for Paris. They are believed to be flying to Barcelona for the Spanish government forces.

Premier John Metaxas, strong man of Greece, who became Dictator when martial law was declared to put down revolutionary disturbances described by the government as resulting from a Communist-promoted strike.

To Invade China

Japanese Troops Reported To Be Ready To Advance

Shanghai.—Reinforced Japanese troops, it was reported here, are preparing for a fresh invasion of Suyuan province in inner Mongolia, adding new tension to strained relations between Japan and China.

Although a Japanese spokesman at Tientsin denied contemplated participation in events in Inner Mongolia, vernacular newspapers here asserted two companies from Jehol, in Manchukuo, had joined the Japanese forces at Dolonor.

Large numbers were concentrating at Shantung, West Chahor in preparation for a fresh invasion of the East Suyuan province, it was asserted here.

The Tientsin spokesman for the Japanese attributed the strife to Mongolian banditry, admitted the situation was complicated but asserted he was unsure whether two Japanese regiments had departed toward Changde. The Tientsin-Manchukuo military pact, he asserted, does not provide for mutual assistance between the Manchukuo and the Chinese.

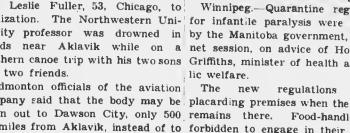

Foreign observers, watching the clouds of dissension gather, believed serious action might result.

Must Be Quarantined

Manitoba Adopts New Regulations To Fight Infantile Paralysis

Winnipeg.—Quarantine regulations for infantile paralysis were adopted by the Manitoba government, in cabinet session, on advice of Hon. I. B. Griffiths, minister of health and public welfare.

The new regulations include placarding premises when the patient remains there. Food-handlers are forbidden to engage in their occupations within 14 days of their last exposure to infantile paralysis infection.

NOTES AND COMMENTS

DUST this summer, owing to a lengthly dry spell, has been a nuisance complained of by all citizens. Without even a wind, automobiles have stirred up dust in thick clouds. The oil surfacing proposal for the highway not having been favorably responded to by citizens of the Pass towns, has caused many to ask--why not inaugurate a program for surfacing the roads in town?

WITH the exception of cement sidewalks and road surfacing in the business area, and bitumal sidewalks on Second street and to West Coleman, nothing has been done in lasting improvement. Sixth street has been graded, as well the people living there know it from the dust. The job is not finished, if reports are true that some kind of surfacing has to be done. Our streets are in such a crude state that they are ugly to the eye, though we may have become accustomed to the sight. But visitors notice it, and locally we are too prone to accept such conditions without doing much about it.

EVERY year gravel and rocks are spread, and after awhile the rocks are picked up, causing unnecessary labor, and expense which might well be used to better advantage. The amount expended over a number of years runs into a tidy sum, which, if used on a definite program covering a year or two, would give the town's value. The present system of tinkering does not, and leaves the roads as dusty as ever.

IT IS believed that the majority of ratepayers would favor a road surfacing program to give relief from the dust. Very little has been done in public improvements since the town was incorporated, owing to lack of initiative and the tendency in a mining town to think that any old thing will do. A more substantial method of road repairing would cost very little more than the patching up and scraping together of gravel to the centre of the roads, there to be flattened by cars or blown away by the wind. We would at least have something worth while when the job was done, and we believe the council would find over a number of years that it would be far more economical and give satisfaction to the ratepayers. $20,000 spread over a few years for a population the size of Coleman certainly cannot be considered extravagant, particularly when it is so badly needed.

FATHER ABERHART after reading the Calgary Herald blazed forth in a very vituperative manner, but he has nothing on some of the political parties in the States, now in the throes of a presidential election campaign.

Here are a few extracts from the Literary Digest's "Topics of the Day":

Father Coughlin says this of President Roosevelt: "As I was instrumental in removing Herbert Hoover from the White House, so help me God, I will be instrumental in taking a Communist from the chair once occupied by Washington."

Then at Candidate Landon:

"This fellow from the west—what's his name? When he goes on the radio everybody shuts off. That's why I don't know his name."

Then he speaks of both major parties:

"The old corpses of the Democratic and Republican Parties are stinking in our nostrils."

The Digest goes on to state: In a concluding burst of oratory he (Father Coughlin) roared that he would beat $25,000 at odds of three-to-two that William Lemke would poll more votes in Rhode Island than Landon. A Providence citizen promptly placed $16,666.66 on the line, and the bet was on."

They certainly like their politics piping hot in the States, and the crowd get a great laugh, even more so than in Alberta, for there is more humor injected into the campaign there.

OUR POLITICAL campaigns are tame compared to those across the line. Here is a strong Democratic supporter, "Boss" Thomas J. Pendergast, who apparently delivers the vote in Kansas City. Asked how he secured such a following he said: "I feed 'em. I am the home relief of Kansas City. I give out all the jobs I can find. A political boss does not have to be a grafter, or a robber or any of those things the papers call me in Missouri."

MANY will come to the conclusion that the more "bally-hoo" a political speaker hands out, the better the people like it. Then, later, as they become disillusioned, they wonder how they fell for it, or try and forget it as quickly as possible. It reminds one of the "barker" at the circus, who so elaborately describes the attractions inside of the tent that everyone follows the "stooges" who lead the way. When they get inside, they awaken from the hypnotism to find they have just been simply "strung along." Its just human nature to follow the crowd; always has been and always will be. If you want to try it, just stop in a crowded

A helping hand might well be given to Mike Huciliak, who for over a year has been under the doctor's care. Receiving no compensation, he has found it necessary to raise some cash to pay expenses. He is doing this by means of selling tickets for a draw on a valuable gold watch, at 50¢ each, and many have already purchased. A good turn from many will help a lot.

A valued subscriber of many years Mr. Harry Olson, formerly section foreman at Coleman for the C.P.R., who is now road-master at Shaunavon, Sask. His daughters, Mrs. James Kilgannon, and Mrs. Leslie Griffiths, are former pupils of Coleman high school, and are both living here. In response to many complaints regarding the dust nuisance, the town council will hard surface the corner of the highway on Fourth street, alongside the residence of Wm. Pryde. Due to the heavy traffic at this point the dust has been extremely bad.

Three young men of Coleman had a good day's fishing entirely spoilt by the long arm of the law. They were intercepted and their catch inspected, which proved to be more than the daily limit. Consequently their tackle was confiscated and a fine as well imposed. Which proves that though you may get away with ignoring the law on occasions, there comes a time when you get caught.

Going Modern At 70

Tom Clarke, old-time printer of Macleod, was visiting his son last week. He always calls on The Journal. Walking into the office rather suddenly, we failed to recognize him till he spoke. His voice sounded familiar, and a second look showed he had shaved off his moustache. It gave him the appearance of being much younger than when he was last here. The reason he cut it off was that he felt he might as well "go modern," and there was so much dust around, anyway, that it was almost as much a nuisance in winter, when a moustache gets bunged up with icicles.

Usually you will find the real shopping opportunities advertised in The Journal.

LOYALTY in the pinches

WHEN the land is flowing with milk and honey, it is easy to have a host of friends. But when evil days come and the winds of controversy sweep bitingly over the land, the chaff is scattered and only the real kernels of friendship are left. Friends may argue with you. They may laugh at you or tell you what they think of you, but they are there when you need them, ready with a helping hand when the going is rough. They are loyal.

IT is heartening to discover that loyalty is not the scattered virtue of a few but a widespread deep-rooted growth springing from the very hearts of the people. It has been a continual source of strength to us to find our readers staunchly with us through good years and bad, come fine weather or foul. They may disagree with us sometimes, they may question our opinions, they may on occasion burn our ears with scathing comments, but still they are our readers and our friends.

THEY know that we are as stoutly for Alberta and the common good as they are. They know that even if they disagree with our editorials, they will always find the whole unbiased truth in our news columns, the reports exactly as we receive them from reliable sources, accurate and uncolored.

We acknowledge with grateful appreciation the confidence that our readers have reposed in us and here renew our pledge to keep faith in continuing to give them a free unhampered news service.

Truth must prevail—and the independent newspapers of Southern Alberta will follow it courageously wherever it is found.

We're Seeing Things

Actresses Report Strange Happenings At Village In India

Charges made by two actresses have sent the police of Nowabshaw, India, on a "ghost" hunt. The actresses declared that when they returned home after the evening performance an old fakir standing at the foot of the stairs beckoned them to follow him upstairs. When they reached the top he was gone, and in his place were two cats "with sparks shooting out of their eyes." The women looked out of the window, and were horrified to see a young woman hanging from a branch, shouting that he was being murdered. They dashed down to help him—only to see him jump down, "and disappear into thin air." This was enough for the two actresses. They called in neighbors as protection, packed their things and left for quiet lodgings.

Recovered Lost Purse

E.C. Woman Was Happy To Find Contents Intact

E. A. Cook, a janitor at the British Columbia museum, picked up a purse and, without opening it, put it to one side until someone claimed it.

An hour later a woman appeared, rushed about frantically, looked behind museum cases and eventually approached Cook.

"Is that what you are looking for?" he asked, producing the purse.

"Yes," she said, and opening the purse, pulled out a roll of money and counted it.

"That's right, $915," she said, "thank you" and walked out.

"After another season," said Farmer Cornetosel, "I guess we'll have a chef for the summer boarders."

"What's a chef?" asked the wife. "A chef is a man with a big enough vocabulary to give the soup a different name every day."

On an average, women are said to live longer than men, because they live quieter lives and do not take so many risks.

Empire Shipping Lines

Sir Edward Beatty Is Organizing To Meet Competition In The Pacific

Projects that employ shipping lines in the Pacific are getting together under the leadership of Sir Edward Beatty, president of the Canadian Pacific Railway, and are organizing to meet foreign competition are discussed in an editorial in the London Daily Mail.

"This would indeed be a welcome step," says the newspaper. "Sir Edward Beatty is known the world over as president of the famous Canadian Pacific Railway and is probably the foremost business chief in the British empire. When he takes an affair in hand he never fails to carry it through. In this case there is a special need of initiative and energy such as he possesses in so high a degree."

"Four years have elapsed since the British government promised the British lines support in the face of the competition of American vessels," it continues. "These lines, I suspect, have subsidies and also have as an aid the coastal reservation which closes to British liners the trade between such points as the United States and Honolulu."

"The British government ought therefore to grant a very handsome subsidy to the British lines to enable the position. It is now or never if the British lines are to be saved as their reserve funds are exhausted. If Beatty can infuse 'pep' into the governments concerned and secure an adequate British service in the Pacific he will have made yet another immense contribution to the welfare of the British empire."

Seaside Resort For Workers

Nazis Planning Colossal Playground Exclusively For Working Class

A "colossal" seaside resort exclusively for the working class is being conjured up by the Nazis from a lonely strip of beach between Bins and Samsitz, on the island of Ruegen, in the Baltic Sea. Two thousand factory girls, miners, workers, kitchen maids, housemaids, gardeners, cobblers, plumbers, engineers, drivers, train conductors and postmen, with their wives and children, will live in 3,350 rooms all facing the sea. Each day about 8,000 workers will arrive and 3,000 depart, each group staying 10 days. Thus in five months 300,000 are to be accommodated.

They will eat 80,000 rolls and 25,000 pounds of bread a day which will be baked in their own bakery. A private laundry will wash 16,000 pounds of laundry daily. Meals will be served in 10 gigantic "food houses."

The beach has a length of five miles of which more than three miles will be equipped with promenades, cafés, resting places, etc. A pier 2,250 feet long will be built.

Cosmic Rays

Huge Electrical Machine For Controlling Speeders Of The Sky

A huge electric "traffic cop" for those mystery speeders of the universe—cosmic rays—heard compilation of Dr. Arthur Holly Compton, noted physicist.

It was designed on the same general principle as "speed traps" for human motorists. The idea was to pull them out of line as raced along, slow them down, and take their finger-prints."

Because the rays are believed to travel almost as fast as light—which beats everything else by whizzing along at 186,300 miles a second—powerful electric currents are required to brake them even slightly.

Thus the "traffic cop" is a 12-ton magnet capable of producing an attraction in a cubic foot of air 40,000 times as great as the earth's magnetic pull.

Has Useful Gift

King Edward Always Able To Make Appropriate Speech

When King Edward (as Prince of Wales) was in Canada and had to make a speech at almost every railway division point, people said his speeches were written by a secretary. When 10 years later, he began appearing at important public functions at home and abroad, with his speeches growing in maturity, it was condescendingly admitted that perhaps he improved on the manuscript of a "ghost." To certain people, always wise about what goes on in high places, no statesman or ruler ever has a mind of his own.

No "ghost" could have written the little speech which King Edward made to 5,000 Canadian Vimy pilgrims at Buckingham Palace. Yet, impromptu as it was, made upon impulse, it was a model of its kind. John Morley once said that a good speech depended upon where it was made, how it was made, and what was said, adding the gay cynicism with which the least important word in the speech was the most important. John Morley once said that a good speech depended upon where it was made, how it was made, and what was said, adding the gay cynicism with which the least important word in the speech was the most important.

What made King Edward's speech timely was the gay cynicism with which the least important word in the speech was the most important.

Thou Shalt Not Love

She watched her father fade, day by day. The physician who had known Ellison all his life, who had brought Starr into the world, was plainly baffled. There was nothing organically wrong with Professor Ellison. Weakness, caused by exposure in the desert, the doctor called it tentatively.

It was after the funeral that Starr remembered how keenly the doctor had eyed her.

"You don't look any too well yourself, Starr. My dear," he had told her, concernedly. "You're like a shadow. Better let me prescribe something for you."

"No! No!" Starr whelled around in a panic.

What did he mean? Did he think she was ill? Crazy thoughts raced through her mind.

"Thou, and thy children..."

John Lessing's words—"It's got me, Ellison. It'll get you, too—and Starr."

She cried defiantly to herself: "I won't let it! I won't let it! I'll fight!"

But it's pretty hard to fight when you're alone in the world, when you've been reared with the idea that you'll always have money, and suddenly there is none. When you can't get work, and a deadly weariness creeps over you, you know that Starr knew. She had tried—so long. She had come away from the New England home town. No one should ever know how badly everything had really gone. Her chance to make her way alone would, she was sure, be better in New York, where no one knew her, where she could really get out and fight. It hadn't worked out that way. There was no work here, either. No hope.

It was a strange which finally had sent Starr Ellison that morning to the New York specialist who knew nothing about her, or who she was; nothing of her history. It was well, she had argued, to see another doctor.

And so he had looked at her, pounced her here and there, did all the usual things, said a lot of the usual things, some of which she scarcely comprehended. But that one sentence of his had registered indefinitely:

"You might as well know the worst. You won't live another six months."

Subconsciously she had been waiting to hear just that.

The curse of Tut-Amen-Ra had caught up with her.

Sombody was gently shaking her by the arm. Startled, she realized that she was still staring like one hypnotized at the bas-relief on the vase which was so frighteningly like the mummy face of Anna-Sun. Even before she glanced up to see who was disturbing her, she realized in a flash that at least no longer would she be afraid of things Egyptian. She had stoned them down—they and their curses. They knew now she was not afraid. She would see it through gallantly.

Her upturned gaze showed a uniformed man who was smiling down at her.

"Got to close up now, Miss," he said. "Reckon you'll have to come out of Egypt."

Starr leaped to her feet.

"Oh, my! Sorry! I hadn't realized—I didn't know—"

The attendant laughed indulgently.

ITCH STOPPED IN A MINUTE. * * * Are you tormented with the itching tortures of eczema, hives, asthma, foot-eruptions, or other skin afflictions? For relief, apply Professor D. D. D. Peacock's new "ITCH STOPPED IN A MINUTE." Stop the most intense itching instantly! A simple, safe, at drug store price.

"Oh, that's all right, Miss. We used to do that. Lots of folks come in here and get clean wrapped up in thinking they're Cleopatra or somebody, and we got to rouse 'em up. It's a right interesting place, Egypt, ain't it?"

Starr smiled at him mechanically, but she did not answer his question as she moved away, nodding her thoughts. If he only knew! If he only knew!

CHAPTER IV.

Never again would Starr Ellison be afraid of Egypt or the reticuous things of the ancient Pharaohs. She might resent, might refuse placidly accept the door of their curse upon her father's house and upon herself, but during that hour spent in the "Mummy Room" she had flung her demands to the gods and priestesses, and would go out to meet them with head held high. The damage was done now. They could do no more.

Walking through the city in the dusk of the dying day, the thought of poetic justice was in her mind.

For the first time since that terrible trip to the land of the Pharaohs she gloried in the thought of her own physical beauty that resembled that of their priestesses. If the time ever came, she meant to turn that to account.

Then she laughed. With no touch of merriment in the silvery ripple. If the time ever came! And her with six months—!

Tired after her day's exertions and the strong emotions she had felt in the Metropolitan, Starr sank down on a bench sheltered by some clustering shrubbery, touched to pinks and oranges and russet by the setting finger of winter. She must have slept. She did not know. Only when she came to herself with a start, the night had come. Electric lights flickered along the driveways and beyond were the tall buildings with their tops hidden by night mists and crowned with the city's jeweled lights. From over the minarets of the tall buildings south of the El hung a moon, a moon that alien to the earth, a moon that had never been just such a moon as had given birth to Isis. The limbs of the trees from which the leaves had already fallen stood out against the sky as if carved of ebony. The Park was a place of purple shadows.

The muted notes of a low-voiced automobile siren sounded eerily like the plaintive notes of a reed pipe creeping up from an Egyptian river, and the rumble of the El in the distance was the more distinct throb of a darabukkeh. The walls of the high buildings beyond the Park walls, framed in the twinkling lights, were dazzlingly white—as white as the walls of houses she remembered silhouetted against the sands of the eternal desert. Almost she could imagine giant boughavilles trailing down their immense heights.

Again Starr Ellison laughed and marched herself straight for the Park entrance. This Egyptian business was getting to be an obsession—of a different kind and since this afternoon's press conference. She was seen again, I suppose, everywhere.

"It won't do!" she told herself firmly. "You're getting light-headed, that's what! You, who just a little while ago was having mental hysterics admiring a steak in a cafe window."

Plainly enough food was indicated, but where should she go? She had quite forgotten, in the stress of other thoughts, the sight of the man who had driven her to the refuge of the Museum. Just as well. She would never see him again, of course. But there still was the yearning for life that would not be downed as she swung out of the Park and headed down the first street she saw. Her mind was made up. For once she meant to go some place where there was music—life!—and for just a few minutes be of that life.

Where, was a question, but surely she had enough to pay for one peep vision of what was going on in New York this night and every night. The slim collection of folded bills might be missing afterward, but what did it matter? There was not enough to pay Mrs. Maloney, anyway.

She was, a question, but surely a question she had to pay for one peep vision of what was going on in New York this night and every night. The slim collection of folded bills might be missing afterward, but what did it matter?

"It was music—life!" she said to herself.

The cost of the mustard in any recipe is so small, why take chances by using anything but the best? When you use KEEN'S D.S.F. MUSTARD you KNOW you are getting ALL pure mustard—full of flavor and zest.

Made from seed grown in the Fens of England. Shells or hulls are removed and only the inner part of the seed is used. Superfine grinding brings out the full mustard flavor.

danced about the small floor. But as Starr sat alone, sipping her cocktail, all her ardor at buying a bit of life for herself for dollars and a quarter dampened. It began to look drab to her. She didn't like the unattractive, aged, unimpeachable-featured men, and plainly bumptious women from whose overhead scraps of conversation she could make out that they had decided a preference for Elizabethan English. It was not working out at all. The dollar and so forth was going—for an indifferent cocktail or so. And she wasn't getting a thrill at all.

She sighed. Well, it was all of a piece. You couldn't force fate, one way or another. With less than five dollars you couldn't even get interested enough to forget you had only six months to live, and if this sort of thing was life, the best you could say for it was that it was synthetic.

Desperately she was trying to make up her mind that she would leave this place, hunt up some other where racketeers went, if she could find such a place—they might be living life in the raw, but at least, one was told, they lived it. Anything, anything! would be better than this remembering—When...

The door opened, bringing in a blast of sharpened night air and the wisps of fog that were beginning to gather, refuting the gorgous day's promise of beautiful weather. It must be starting to rain.

He was a man who could be shaking drops from his hair as he handed it to the hot chick girl, glancing around at the place as though he knew it, but with a shrug of resignation which spoke of a part in a storm.

Then Starr saw his face as he started across the floor toward the bar. He saw her, too, a moment later, and the surprise melted into a grin. How was Starr to know the quick thoughts that were behind the grin on Michael Fairbourne's face? It looked as if he were glad to see her—and alone—in quite such a place as La Luna. Fairbourne had not entered in such blissful ignorance of the reputation of the place as had Starr Ellison. In his mind, her being there—alone—placed her. It was not an unpleasant surprise.

Quickly he crossed the room, stood looking down at her a moment.

"We've met before," he remarked lazily, as she remembered he spoke. She nodded, and glanced up at him shyly. This time she was determined not to run away.

"This is the third time," she said, and smiled, her unbelievably long lashes lowering over her unbelievably long eyes in what might have been construed as a challenge.

"Right," he said. "Three times and out! What a blessed coincidence that it started to rain when I was passing this—an—dump—and not a car in sight... May I sit down?"

Starr moved over, saying nothing, but feeling the two bright spots of color that must be brightening her camel cheeks. The man said:

"Maybe they're right when they say there's Fate in the lives of men and women."

Starr nodded. "Three Fates. You can't pick and choose."

The man glanced at her out of the corner of his eye as he held up a hand for a waiter, gave his order, and one for a replenishment of Starr's glass. There was quizzical surprise in his eyes.

"Snappy comeback," he remarked. "You'd hardly expect it—here." Then he laughed. "But I forgot when I made a little crack about Egypt. Know about the gods as well as the Fates?"

"La ilha illa illa Allah!" said Starr softly. How could she ever once have sworn to forget everything Egyptian, the Arabs, their sayings, their Allah, all?

The man's eyes widened and he stared at her.

Space For Rent

Upper Floors Of New York Skyscraper Untenanted

As almost everybody knows, the Empire State Building is untenanted on the 40th floor, except for the Randolph-Peterson office on the 39th floor or the N.B.C. television laboratories on the 38th floor. On each of the untenanted floors, most of which are bare and without partitions, twenty-four 60-watt bulbs are kept burning at night as long as the tower is lighted. The idea is to keep the tower from looking as if it were just floating. What with the first 40 floors being fairly well lighted by cleaning women and belated office workers, the whole effect from outside is imposing and probably worth the expense; somebody who wanted an office might happen by, "What a fine building!" and rent some space in it.

Incidentally, if this somebody who-wanted-an-office should want above the 40th floor, the smallest amount of space the management would rent him would be four floors. As things are now, the express elevators marked "41-42", "42-47", and "so on aren't in use, and wouldn't be financially worth while to operate them unless they were for the 40th floor. At the moment, nobody seems to want four floors.

Once every night watchmen stamp down stairs through the deserted from the 86th floor to the 40th, punching time clocks. The only thing they have ever found out of the ordinary was a party of three small boys trying to sneak up to the observation tower. Now and again, in stormy weather, hawks and pigeons fly against the lighted windows and fall dead on the setbacks outside. Nothing else has ever happened there.—The New Yorker.

A Strange Inscription

Chinese Characters Carved In Heart Of Tree Branch

An unusual story of a discovery comes from Chengtu, West China. In the compound of the Woman's Missionary Society, while two of the workers cut off some branches of a large tree, in the heart of a great branch was found carved Chinese characters.

The news spread like wildfire and the branch was on exhibition for some days, while many thousands of people thronged to see it—beggars, students, professors, teachers—they came from all walks of life.

It predicts—the wise men say—that a great scholar is to come from that school or that the monarch is to be restored or that the city is to be destroyed! According to the rings, they were carved on the branch about thirty years ago. Another branch must have pressed upon it and they grew together, forming one. Then, splitting, the natural line of cleavage revealed itself, and lo! there comes to light this strange inscription.—The New Outlook.

Find Plane Wreckage

Year Old Mystery Is Solved In Wordless Story

A pile of charred bones under a broken airplane told a wordless story of the fate of Pilot Arthur F. Hines and three passengers who left Denver, Y.T., a year ago for a 500-mile flight to Fairbanks.

High on the side of a barren 5,000-foot mountain, 175 miles east of Fairbanks, a prospector found the tragic solution of the 12-month-old mystery, and flew to Fairbanks with the news.

John Higashikoshi, the prospector, said the plane evidently crashed into the mountain side and burned.

Hines' passengers were Mr. and Mrs. John Lonz, Fairbanks newlyweds, and Alan Nordale, a court clerk.

Same Old Trouble

Abraham Lincoln was one day walking along the sidewalk in Springfield, heading two of his sons by the top of their voices. A friend asked Mr. Lincoln what was the matter.

He promptly replied, "Just what the matter with the whole world. I have three sons and each boy wants two."—Christian Science Monitor.

Girl Making Long Trip

Going To England From South Africa On Motor-Cycle

A London girl typist, who has been in South Africa for 2½ years, Miss H. Engel, is making an early start to see the coronation of King Edward VIII.

Accompanied by F. Budd, a mechanic and watchmaker of Durban, she left Durban recently in a motorcycle and sidecar to ride to London.

They are making their way right through Africa to Cairo, and even before they reached Johannesburg they had some setbacks. A broken plank kept them in the Orange Free State for ten days, and later the sidecar chassis was damaged, delaying them another four days. Later on they risk meeting lions!

From Cairo they will make their way through Asia Minor to Constantinople, whence their route is by way of Sofia, Belgrade, Zagreb, Vienna, Milan, Switzerland and France to the English Channel.

This will be the first time that Mr. Budd has left his native Durban.

Has A Hard Time

Preacher Is Criticized No Matter What He Does

A preacher has a hard time. If he is a hairy he is too old. If he is a young man he hasn't had any experience.

If he has ten children, he has too many. If he has none, he should have and it isn't showing a good example. If his wife sings in the choir, she is presuming.

If a preacher reads his notes he is a bore. If he speaks extemporaneously he isn't deep enough.

If he stays home to study, he doesn't mix with the people. If he is seen around on the streets, he ought to be home getting up a good appetite.

If he calls at the home of the poor, he is playing to the grandstand. If he calls at the home of the rich, he is an aristocrat.

Whatever he does someone could tell him how to do it better. Next to being an editor or a school teacher, it is an awful life!

Stratford Age-Dispatch.

Has Had Great Success

Pooh Peasant Uses Certain Chemicals To Produce Rain

The claim that he can cause rain to fall at will is made by a peasant at the Polish village of Grutkow. Every demonstration of his method has so far proved successful. The peasant, Wladyslaw Skierzeza, uses certain chemical substances for his tests. At one demonstration in the presence of newspaper correspondents he produced a number of bottles and jars containing these substances. He uncorked them and poured the contents on the ground. A few hours later clouds appeared and heavy rain fell over a considerable area. The inventor refuses to disclose the nature of his mysterious chemicals.

But he declares he is willing to repeat his experiments at any time in the presence of meteorological experts.

Cannot Be Salvaged

"Time waste differs from material waste," said Henry Ford, "in that there can be no salvage." Then comes that thoughtful sentence: "This easiest of all wastes, the hardest to correct, is this waste of time, because wasted time does not litter the floor like wasted material."

The purchaser of an old violin found £100 in paper money hidden inside the instrument. Those are the kinds of notes anyone would be glad to get out of a violin.

Latest statistics show the existence in Canada of 690 farmers' co-operative associations actively engaged in business, with 2,533 branch establishments, and a shareholder membership of 345,000.

Funeral Service Mrs. D'Amico

Funeral services for Mrs. Annie D'Amico were held last Friday afternoon at Holy Ghost church, at which a large number of friends of the family were present from Coleman and other points in Alberta and British Columbia. Many floral offerings were sent. The pall-bearers were A. Ambrosi and Sam Chiaravita of Coleman; S. Rossi of Bellevue; D. Rossi of Hillcrest; Joe Norton of Passburg, and A. Savitatores of Hillcrest.

Card of Thanks

Mr. and Mrs. Charles D'Amico, and son Rudolph wish to thank their many friends and neighbors for their sympathy and floral offerings in the death of Mr. D'Amico's mother; also those who kindly loaned cars for the funeral and others who assisted.

That disastrous fire in Montreal whereby three firemen were killed and many injured recalls the incident of an inquiry into a fire of suspected incendiary origin. The Irish janitor in his evidence stated it wasn't the electric light on the second floor, or the gas-light on the first floor, but a bloody Israelite in the basement that caused the fire. A man named Cohen is under arrest as a suspect.

Ed. Ledieu made the trip round to Lynx Creek cabin on Wednesday afternoon to deliver a load of provisions to the fire-fighters' camp. The roads were terrible following the rain of Tuesday night.
